Council seeks solar solution

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Highlands East will be developing a protocol for dealing with solar project applications.

In a 3-2 vote at an Aug. 14 meeting, councillors had passed a motion in favour of solar projects in the municipality, as requested by Renewable Environmental Energy Services, a company that had applied to erect a solar power set up under the Ontario Power Authority's feed-in-tariff program.

The regulations of the program were changed in April, allowing room for municipal support of projects. A motion of support gains projects extra points with the OPA.

"All of the lower tiers are having some challenges with this," said Reeve Dave Burton.

One of the program's regulations is that projects larger than 10 kilowatts not be located on a residentially zoned property or even next to a residentially zoned property, regardless of the size of the property.

"It's not that we don't support solar," said

Councillor Cec Ryall, who added people needed to meet program requirements.

Councillor Joan Barton said she wanted to see a protocol requiring applicants to give deputations explaining their application, sharing background information about themselves as well as going over project site plans.

Barton also wanted public open houses as a requirement.

Deputy-reeve Suzanne Partridge noted that council does not have the power to Man rolls truck into Pine Lake

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

A West Guilford man is safe after crashing his SUV, boat trailer and boat into Pine Lake on the afternoon of Oct. 9.

Bill Reynolds was at his Nila Road home at about 2:45 p.m. when a neighbour came running frantically, yelling for help.

"My neighbour said, 'I heard this crash,'" Reynolds said, explaining that she'd found another Nila Road resident, a man in his 80s, had crashed his vehicle several metres down a steep slope and into the lake.

It was overturned with the boat and trailer on top.

Gary Collins was in the neighbourhood helping to stack wood and rushed across the road and down the slope.

"I heard him beeping his horn," Collins said. "I jumped in the water."

The man seemed to be OK.

"I asked him if his leg was pinned or anything," Collins said. "He was calm, cool and collected."

Collins was able to force the door open and pull the man out.

EMS and fire department personnel arrived shortly after and the OPP said the man sustained no serious injuries.

Police said it is unlikely charges will be laid.

Gary Collins explains how he pulled a man from this SUV after it, along with a boat and trailer, crashed into Pine Lake off of Nila Road on Oct. 9. The man was OK.

Highlands East council opts not to regulate fireworks

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Highlands East council will not be creating a bylaw restricting fireworks in the township.

The issue didn't make much of a noise when councillors discussed it at their Oct. 9 meeting.

There have been numerous complaints throughout the county of fireworks going off at all times of the day, holiday or not, in the summer.

Algonquin Highlands is strengthening its noise bylaw to address fireworks and last Thursday, Minden Hills councillors started working on a fireworks ban.

However, complaints about fireworks in Highlands East seem to be non-existent.

"Have there been complaints?" asked Councillor Joan Barton.

Her colleagues said they hadn't received any.

Fire chief Bill Wingrove said he had received one complaint about flying lanterns being used at a funeral.

Used in many Asian cultures, the lanterns are becoming more common in Canada.

Deputy-reeve Suzanne Partridge said she had concerns about the lanterns landing in lakes and Wingrove said the Fire Marshal's Office is gathering more information on the devices.

Councillors also agreed that a fireworks bylaw would be too difficult to enforce.

Prestigious award given to longtime volunteer

Wilberforce resident honoured with Queen's Diamond Jubilee medal

Jenn Watt
Editor

Roberta Walsh has long known the power of volunteering.

For decades, the cheery owner of the Bostonian Motel has been pitching in, flipping burgers, installing playground equipment and organizing fundraisers to better her community.

To recognize that work, MPP Laurie Scott awarded the Wilberforce resident with the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal on Oct. 9.

"I'm pleased to be here in Wilberforce this morning for the presentation of a Queen Elizabeth Diamond Jubilee Medal to Roberta Walsh. The community has benefited from Roberta's longstanding, unselfish commitment to making Wilberforce a better place for everyone," she said in a speech at the Lloyd Watson Centre.

Walsh, 66, has been active in the local Legion branch, with the volunteer firefighters, the curling club and in Brownies.

She moved to the area in 1955 from the States when her mother married a Canadian.

Her mother built the Bostonian, which Walsh and her husband Max bought in 1981.

Widowed five years ago, Walsh has continued to run the motel and keep up her community activity, which she says keeps her connected and happy.

"To be able to sit back and see all the accomplishments the money raised has made to the community is fantastic," she said in an interview.

The award recipient was out playing bingo when the call from Scott came in that Walsh was to be honoured.

Returning that night, she was alone at home when she heard the good news.

"She left me a message on my answering machine and I sat here and bawled because I didn't know who else I could call at 10 o'clock at night," Walsh said.

Walsh's family attended the ceremony Tuesday, which was an emotional and joyous event. "It's a pretty proud, proud moment," she said.

Of all the volunteering Walsh has done, the most rewarding was her 20 years as a Brown Owl, or Brownie leader.

"I still have girls that come up to me and call me Brown Owl," Walsh said.

The Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal was a great honour, but one that must be shared, the volunteer said.

"I couldn't have done all I did without all of my volunteer friends," she said.

Especially since Walsh doesn't drive.

Max used to call it driving Miss Daisy, for all the rides his wife had to arrange to do her community work.

"There was a lot of people involved in driving Miss Daisy," Walsh laughs.

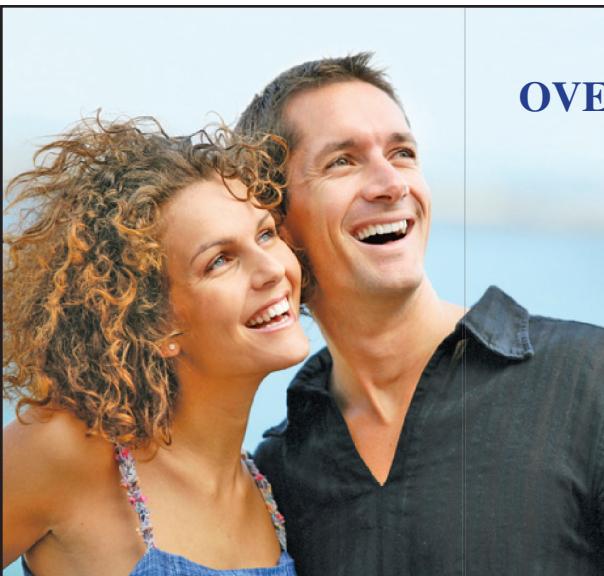

The medal will occupy a place of honour in Walsh's home, in the cabinet beside her husband's 25-year pin for volunteering on the fire department.

Her advice to fellow community members who haven't yet signed up to pitch in: "Get out there and work for your community. The rewards will come."

Council debates usefulness of Doors Open

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed during an Oct. 10 county tourism development committee meeting.

Minden Hills Barb Reid and Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey questioned the value of the county continuing to be part of Doors Open Ontario, an annual event where communities invite the public to check out interesting and historic buildings.

The event was first held in the county in 2009 when it took place in Minden Hills. It moved to Dysart et al in 2010, Highlands East in 2011 and Algonquin Highlands this year.

While Reid and Fearrey weren't convinced there was much positive impact, Highlands East Reeve Dave Burton and Algonquin Highlands Reeve Carol Moffatt said their townships had seen direct benefit.

Moffatt said during the September weekend the event took place this year, she heard that accommodations in the county were hard to come by.

Algonquin Highlands council had been pleased by the turnout.

Previous events had taken place in the spring.

Moffatt said holding Doors Open in the fall was a great opportunity to capitalize on the colourful foliage and noted a number of publications had reported the county as having the best colours in the province this year.

The event will come back to Minden Hills next year.

"I think we should try it again in Minden Hills, but in September," Reid said.

County passes secret shopper test

The county's tourism department made the grade when a secret shopper from the Ontario's Highlands Tourism Organization visited the Highway 35 information centre in August.

"Our department passed with flying colours," tourism co-ordinator Maria Micallef told councillors.

The county earned an overall grade of 95 per cent, losing points for the quality of the parking lot and not inviting the guest back.

Micallef said only 16 of the 23 regions that were secretly shopped received a passing grade.

Minden Hills Reeve Barb Reid was disappointed the secret shopper had not checked the washroom, an important asset for any facility that welcomes the public.

"To me, that was an absolute miss," Reid said.

Destination Guide update

Janis Parker of Parker Pad & Printing Ltd. gave councilors a brief update on the 2013 county destination guide.

The guide will use a wide, horizontal format that won't accommodate a county map.

However, Parker is planning to put a pocket in the back that will contain a folded map and will be able to store other maps, brochures and paper materials.

It'll be another reason for visitors to hang onto their guides, Parker said, "because you've now got all kinds of paperwork in it."

The guide is expected to be printed in early 2013.

County to launch photo contest for website

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

The county will be launching a photo contest as it creates a new tourism website.

At an Oct. 10 tourism development committee meeting, Algonquin Highlands Reeve Carol Moffatt, who sits on the steering committee for the new site, said the group had held its first meeting with Faren Group Inc., the Vaughan-based company that's been hired to do the revamp.

"We did talk about a need for photography," Moffatt said, explaining the county would require a number of stock photos.

User agreements have yet to be finalized.

The winning photograph will be featured prominently on the new site and, if the winner is a professional photographer, a link to that person's website will likely appear.

The county is paying Faren $25,700 plus taxes for the project, which is expected to be completed in early 2013.

The county is also redesigning its bureaucratic website, with that work being done in-house.

Leonard Brown of Minden has been fined $2,000 for illegally killing an adult cow moose, and $3,000 for abandoning it. He is also suspended from hunting in Ontario for five years and will have his rifle returned upon payment of his fines.

John Barkwell and Joshua Crego, both of Kinmount, were each fined $3,500 for their involvement in abandoning the moose and both received a one-year hunting licence suspension.

Benjamin Crego, also of Kinmount, was fined $1,500 for his part in abandoning the moose. In addition, he received a five-year hunting licence suspension.

The court heard that on Oct. 20, 2011, Leonard Brown shot and killed a small adult cow moose while hunting in Wildlife Management Unit 60. His hunting party did not have an adult cow moose validation tag. After field dressing the animal, the group elected to abandon the animal in a nearby marsh to avoid detection. The abandoned moose was found by conservation officers four days later, at which time the meat had spoiled.

Justice of the Peace Carl Young heard the case in the Ontario Court of Justice, Peterborough, on Oct. 11, 2012.

The Ministry of Natural Resources reminds hunters who mistakenly shoot the wrong animal to report the incident immediately. Officers will investigate and take into account all the circumstances. It is both illegal and unethical to let fish and game spoil.

To report a natural resources violation, including the reporting of any mistakenly shot animals, call 1-877-TIPS-MNR (847-7667) toll-free any time or contact your local ministry office during regular business hours. You can also call Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Exhibition explores fraternity in the armed forces

Artist draws from experience embedded with Canadian troops

Jenn Watt
Editor

To be in the military is to live in another world; the survival of a unit requires it.

Soldiers must feel different, apart, from society, the public and especially the "enemy."

It requires isolation, but it simultaneously fosters a familial bond unmatched in the everyday world, says artist Scott Waters.

For more than a decade, Waters has been exploring that relationship through his paintings of Canadian soldiers at home and abroad and he will be bringing some of that work to Haliburton starting Oct. 20.

"My interest in discussing the military is from a social or philosophical point of view – what's it like to be a soldier, why would one choose to be a soldier, the ramifications of those decisions," Waters said in an interview from his Toronto studio.

"In the long game, I'm interested in trying to offer that perspective to the broader Canadian public as a way to understand what is going to take place as all these soldiers start to deal with their experiences in Afghanistan both good and bad," he said.

Caught between two worlds – of a military brotherhood and of the civilian culture they will one day return to – soldiers occupy a unique position in Canadian society.

Waters's work comes from both his experience as part of the Canadian Forces as an infantry soldier as the Cold War was ending and as a trained artist embedded with the military on two occasions, before the war in Afghanistan and in Kabul with a group that was training the Afghan National Army.

"The works that I'm showing bracket a war, but they don't really show a war," Waters said, "They talk about soldiers training to deploy and soldiers being on the more boring end of things after the fact."

He leaves the detailed documentation to the journalists, using his art to interpret the military experience.

The pieces he will bring to Haliburton come from his time in the Canadian Forces Artists Program, which allows artists to capture the lives of soldiers.

The images aren't always flattering or heroic in a traditional sense, which Waters said was part of being honest.

As an artist, Waters was an outsider, but as a former soldier, he has an insider's eye.

His work reflects that tug of war between a participant and an observer.

His version of a memorial, for example, defies civilian sensibilities of how to honour a lost colleague.

Rather than paint a friend's face, or construct a monument, Waters painted an image of tracer fire at night.

"When I was in Alberta ... we went on an overnight live fire attack," he explains.

"The person who was in charge of one of the sections that this image comes from was the sole fatality on the recent training mission." The painting, a shot of orange in a field of darkness, looks abstract to the average viewer.

To a soldier, it is instantly recognizable.

"A lot of people would be puzzled by it," Waters says. "If you've ever been on a live fire at night, or a battle at night, you'll instantly know what it is. If not, it's fairly ambiguous."

Waters is also involved in an anthology called Embedded on the Home Front: Where Military and Civilian Lives Converge, which he will read from during a reception at the Rails End Gallery Oct. 20 at 2 p.m.

Copies of the book will be available to purchase. Seldom Seen: Traces of a War will be at the gallery at 23 York Street in Haliburton until Jan. 12.

Solar regulations created for city situations, planner says

approve or stop projects, just to give motions of support.

"We cannot prevent people from putting up solar projects," she said.

The drafting of a protocol was referred to staff.

In Minden Hills, councillors have resolved not to receive any more FIT applications until the province fixes its legislation.

Minden Hills planning consultant Heather Sadler is a member of the Ontario Professional Planners Institute and said recently she and her colleagues are lobbying the province to change the regulations, which she believes were created with the GTA in mind.

Forever in our memories: Creighton Feir

One more mural

ON THANKSGIVING WEEKEND, Haliburton's Mike Bradley was the latest athlete to be honoured on the Dysart arena wall for his accomplishments in football.

The Durham region police officer achieved much in his career, including being nominated as the top university player in Canada and played in the Canadian Football League.

At the ceremony, his high school coaches came out to praise his accomplishments alongside family, friends and politicians.

His image, in addition to NHL players Matt Duchene, Cody Hodgson, Bernie Nicholls and Ron Stackhouse, proudly demonstrates what Haliburton is capable of and will surely inspire local youth to push themselves to do as well.

Bradley is the first non-hockey player to have his image painted on that wall.

The mural represents a divergence from hockey-only honours of the past to a more comprehensive approach that values athletic excellence across all sports.

It's a positive turn of events, because that change now opens the building to reflect future Haliburton greats from all sports and makes room for one more – the town's only Olympian, Lesley Tashlin.

In the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta, a then-27-year-old Tashlin represented Canada in the women's four-by-100 relay and 100-metre hurdles.

She trained for those races through her 20s, but her first taste of competitive track and field was at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, where she broke records and impressed coaches. An image of Tashlin, leaping over a hurdle or handing off a baton would be a fine addition to our arena wall.

It would also serve to inspire many local girls to get involved in sport.

Unfortunately, at this point Tashlin is not eligible to be added.

While there is no nomination committee to deal with decision-making for the arena wall, Dysart's standing rule is the athlete must have played professional sport.

Given that we're now branching into other sports, the rule that those on the wall must be "professional" is overly limiting.

What requires more athletic ability, determination and skill than competing in the Olympics?

What could young girls – indeed, all young people – aspire to greater than representing their country on the world stage?

Council made the right decision when they opened the wall up to sports other than hockey.

Let's make one more change.

As our only Olympian, Lesley Tashlin deserves to be celebrated alongside Haliburton's other athletic greats.

Autumn reflection

Racks revisited

JUST THE OTHER DAY, my hunting buddy and I looked at a few photos that one of our trail cameras had captured. For those who don't know, a trail camera is a programmable camera that you strap to a tree. It takes photos or video of anything that passes by, so we hunters use them a lot to get a good idea of the incredible number of raccoons that roam our woods.

Sometimes, however, you'll get a good photo of a deer, bear or moose too.

On that occasion, we had a nice photo of a 10-pointer buck with a wide rack – the kind of head that, in a perfect world, any spouse would be proud to hang over the dining room table. Accompanying that deer was a very respectable six-pointer.

My buddy immediately said, "That 10-pointer is mine. You can take the six-pointer."

And, since we are hunting his property, in a perfect world, this would be the case. The problem here is that this statement assumes I have far more willpower than any mortal man should be given credit for. That is especially unfair, since he knows that a lemon meringue pie or a bag of red licorice wouldn't survive 10 minutes in my presence.

Having said that, here are two possible scenarios he is anticipating.

One, the 10 pointer steps into my shooting lane and I salute and let it pass.

Two, the 10-pointer and the six-pointer pass and I, being the considerate guy I am, take the smaller buck.

As you can see, each scenario is totally implausible.

A more realistic scenario would have included me lining up that 10-pointer, only to have my arrow centred-punch an arrow wide branch protecting its vitals. Then, the deer would trot away and stop broadside in front of his ground blind to catch its wind. There he would shoot it dead.

Later, as he came whistling down the trail to get me to help drag it out, he would notice the tracks leading from my stand to his and thank me for passing up on the animal. Then, he would ask why my bow was wrapped around a tree.

I'm not really sure why antler points matter at all since you can't eat them and – due to the advent of equal rights between the sexes – few of us actually use them for home decorating or homemade jewelry anymore.

Still, there's nothing like an impressive set of antlers to stir up a hunter's blood and bring out a bit of the competitive spirit.

My buddy and I are both actually meat hunters and a nice, plump doe would normally suit either of us just fine. And, the odds are good that this is exactly what we'll tag, since we see far more does than bucks.

Still, I'd rather shoot that big buck – or even the smaller one. Not that either would score me any points at home.

Where the wild things are STELLA - COME HERE QUICK!" Ian's voice called from the kitchen. Stella put down the poker and went into the kitchen. A doe and two fawns were having breakfast at the bird feeder. Stella swore under her breath.

They both loved the birds, hence three birdfeeders located in different spots around their yard. Feeding deer was another matter, an expensive one. Still it was hard not to be in awe of these quiet creatures. Their coats were starting to thicken with the arrival of colder weather, giving them a shaggy look. But their graceful, silent movements remained the same no matter what the time of year.

Just then the phone rang. It was Stella's city sister who called on Sunday mornings. Ian poured her a coffee, which she took into the living room to sit by the fire.

"I don't know how you stand living in the country," stated her sister Sue for the millionth time. "I mean, what do you do?"

"Well, what do you do where you live?" countered Stella with a wry smile. "Go shopping, work on your garden and clean the house would be my guess. Oh yes, and watch television and your computer screen. My life is pretty much the same except I don't mall crawl. Instead I woods walk."

Sue laughed. "Woods walk? That's a new one."

"In fact," Stella continued, "I don't even have to leave the house because the 'woods' often comes to me." She then described the morning's three deer. Sue was not overly impressed. Having bustle and sounds around her was what kept her life interesting. Stella knew this. However, for Stella, a trip to the urban scene was only good for a few days before she began to feel over-stimulated and claustrophobic. The city was no more for her than the country was for her sister.

When the phone call was over Stella returned to the kitchen where Ian was putting the final touches on his crepes. They took turns making Sunday brunch and Ian's crepes with fruit and maple syrup were her favourite. The deer had left and the bird feeders would have to be re-filled after brunch and returned to their spots under the trees. Already chickadees and finches were waiting impatiently, hopping from branch to branch like people in a lineup stamping their feet in exasperation.

The groundhog that lived under Stella and Ian's old shed made an appearance just as Stella was tucking into her first crepe. She caught its movement out of the corner of her eye and looked up to see the plump brown critter downing the last of her coreopsis flowers. It was amazing how quickly the animal pulled the stem down to its level and then downed the yellow flower as though popping a gum drop into its mouth. That was when Stella noticed almost all the flowers had been likewise de-nuded. She sighed. Oh well, there was always next year.

She turned to Ian. "Did you know groundhogs went for those things?" she asked him. He just shook his head and shrugged. The flowers were not as important to him as the veggies he hoped to someday grow. But that could only happen when they built a fence capable of keeping the wild things from jumping over or digging under it.

Then there were the other animals. The night before when Stella took their dog for his last stroll they had almost had a skunk encounter. Fortunately Stella had been paying attention and spotted the black and white body before Sam the dog did. She pulled him in the opposite direction and all was well.

The raccoon that had taken up residence in the old shed's attic was probably also still around. Three months ago it had tried to get at the bird feed they kept in a metal garbage can but only managed to awaken Stella. She had chased it off the deck. At least temporarily.

The fisher was something else. It had scampered across the yard with great purpose while Stella had been admiring the fall colours. At first she thought it was a black squirrel but then she realized her error. Well she would rather see a fisher, skunk, deer or raccoon any day compared to a six lane highway or a mall mob scene. So I guess I'm living where I'm meant to be, she thought with a smile.

Glen Dart stands in front of 23 Maple Ave. in the 1940s. The house was purchased in 1926 by Fred and Josie Snell. Their daughter Nellie (Helen) lived there for 56 years until she died in 1982. Nellie married Glen Dart and they lived in the house after the Second World War. Their son Roger lived in the house for more than 20 years from the time of his birth. The house remained in the family until the 1990s. Last week, the Echo featured a story about the house's most recent transformation into a bed and breakfast. Photo submitted by Roger Dart

letters to the editor

Wasted tax dollars

To the Editor,

Why is the federal government wasting tax dollars on staffing Service Canada offices? I recently received a letter from Service Canada that my E.I. claim starting in 2009, ending 2011, was being audited due to discrepancies between my "reported earnings" and my "employers records." After hours of searching for my information from three years ago and starting to compile an argument I realized it was not my fault. The information provided by my employer at the time, to Service Canada, was one week out of sync with what was given to me on my pay slips.

After realizing this, I followed the instructions on the letter and drove to my nearest Service Canada office, Lindsay, for assistance. Wrong! When I entered the office there were five people there on staff, and no other people looking for assistance. After waiting 10 minutes, someone looking like just out of high school, asked if I needed help with something. What did he think I was sitting there for?

After half heartedly listening to me explain why I was there he shrugged and said "we can't help you with that here." Would you like to talk to a Service Canada rep on the phone?" Stupidly I said yes, so he dialed the phone for me, after a 15-minute wait and explaining again why I was contacting them, I was told I had to contact them in writing so it was in my "own words."

What about a phone conversation is not in my own words? They need documentation, can they not write things down? I am sure their idea is "baffle them with bull crap" and most people will not bother to pursue a dispute. I was informed if I "did not respond" I could face penalties, benefit repayment and possibly be charged with fraud. Why is the federal government bothering to staff an agency that "can't help you?"

A word to the wise for anyone on E.I. keep all of your records, I almost threw mine out six months ago. You never know what doom my await you, even three years later.

The Future of the Rail Trail

To the Editor,

As a cottager and now a resident of Haliburton I marvel at the beauty of the county. It is truly "A Natural Work of Art." One of its treasures is the Haliburton County Rail Trail. I've seen and heard the warblers returning to nest in trees along the trail edge each May, admired native plants and flowers and stopped to gaze at ponds and wetlands teeming with wildlife.

I believe that the best plan for the Rail Trail in order to preserve these natural habitats for the enjoyment of people is to limit the use of the trail in the spring, summer and fall to non-motorized vehicles, walkers and hikers. It then could become a destination trail, linking eventually to similar trails in the GTA and attracting tourists, hikers, cycling tours and nature groups from all around the globe.

The economic benefits of an increase in tourism should not be underestimated. I think that there needs to be a coalition formed of interested groups in the county working toward making a plan like this happen.

Re-imagining the Rail Trail

Friends of the Rail Trail, or FoRT for short, is hosting an evening reception at the Haliburton Museum on Tuesday, Oct. 23 with presentations on two community projects. Join Friends for coffee and cake at 6:30 p.m. and learn about FoRT's work within the village, and a broad partnership project beyond the county's borders.

"Creating a Village Pathways Network" seeks input on stitching together fragments of trails around Haliburton village into an attractively mapped and signed network. The Dahl Forest recently completed a trail network with a beautiful wayfinding system that makes exploring that 500-acre Land Trust property an absolute treat. Named colour-coded loops, co-ordinated sign template and clear map allow visitors to select a variety of routes without fear of getting lost in the woods.

We have lots of wonderful paths all around the village, but it's confusing for residents, let alone tourists. A Pathways Network would encourage a pleasant walk or bike to destinations like the college, Rails End Gallery, or Heritage House Café, while enjoying lake views, riverbanks, and rest stops in shady greenspace. The two street-scape projects will be tied in as "pathways," encouraging strolls through the Business Improvement Area to shop, eat and drink. The grand plan including amenities may take a couple of years to achieve, but now's the time to start making suggestions.

The Left Bank, Right Bank and Over the Hill and "thru" the Woods - these are sample self-guided routes described in handouts inviting feedback. This project ties in with improvements in Glebe Park, and can influence updates to the Dysart et al Active Transportation Plan.

The second presentation of the evening offers a chance to learn about the "Greenway HCRT" project. This is a major tourism concept that would create a corridor of linked cultural and soft adventure experiences between the GTA and Algonquin Park, drawing visitors through Haliburton en route. This multiple partnership project, initiated by FoRT, could feature the Haliburton County Rail Trail as the central component. Rouge Park, the first urban National Park, is the gateway from Toronto to this Greenway corridor, including York Durham Heritage Train, hiking the Oak Ridges Moraine, a few days' worth of cycling touring, all that Haliburton has to offer culturally, local foods, Algonquin Highlands hiking trails, the Frost Centre canoe routes and the Old Railway Bike Trail in Algonquin Park. Several international tour companies have advised on the concept development.

Haliburton county council received a Greenway Plan proposal Sept. 26, which invited a partnership with FoRT. Although initial response was lukewarm, to give them the benefit of the doubt, it's a lot to take in at once.

This is an exciting project with lots of opportunities for community buy-in and new business development, based on successful examples that have been closely studied.

The kicker, if we start planning now, is linking into the grand opening of the Trans Canada Trail on Canada Day, 2017. The TCT will be the longest trail in the world. Let's discuss the possibilities! Info or RSVP (not necessary, but appreciated) Pamela Marsales, 705 457-4767.

Legendary folk artist to perform at the Dominion Hotel

On the evening of Oct. 21, lovers of Canadian folk music will have an opportunity to see and hear the legendary J.P. Cormier. The Haliburton County Folk Society was fortunate to catch Cormier on his way back from the end of what he is calling his last tour. He is touring in support of a new recording titled Somewhere in the Back of My Heart, his first since recovering from an accident that severely damaged his spine.

Though not a household name, he is known in the business as a singer, songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, producer, recording artist, teacher, collaborator, innovator and award winner. He is considered a musical genius, able to play any stringed instrument. He is mainly known for his beautiful guitar work, but his fiddle and banjo work is also outstanding and award winning.

Since recording his first album at age 16, and subsequently leaving Nova Scotia to follow his career to the United States, Cormier has produced 14 solo albums, won 12 East Coast Music Awards, a Canadian Folk Music Award, performed at the Grand Old Opry more than 20 times and has been invited to every major folk and acoustic festival in Canada and several throughout the world. Additionally, he spent 10 years in Nashville as a session musician.

Fans of the writing traditions of Stan Rogers and Gordon Lightfoot tend to see J.P. Cormier as a songwriter, even before a multi-instrumentalist. As a performer, Cormier is known for his flawless delivery of original story songs, most often basing his lyrics on true events. Inspiration comes when he least expects it and, in his words, "I just hold the pen."

Cormier will be performing with longtime band member Bill Elliott on Sunday, Oct. 21 at the Dominion Hotel in Minden. Show time is an early 7 p.m. Tickets are available at the Photo Shop in Haliburton, the Organic Times in Minden or online at Madeinhaliburton.ca. Terry Fallis to be guest speaker at library gala Terry Fallis, Canada's premier political satirist, is the guest author at the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library's seventh annual book gala on Sunday, Nov. 4 at 1 p.m. at the Pinestone Resort. Terry is the author of three extremely popular novels, The Best Laid Plans (2007), The High Road (2008), and Up and Down (2012), which look at Canadian politics in an amusing and insightful way.

Fallis comes by his subject matter with firsthand knowledge. He assisted in the political campaign of former prime minister Jean Chretien in 1984, held various political staff positions in the Liberal government, and became a legislative assistant in the Peterson government in Ontario in 1985. From 1988 to 1995 he worked as government affairs and communications consultant for the PR firm Hill and Knowlton; as vice president in charge of Ontario government affairs group; and as president of Berger and Associates. In 1995, he co-founded the PR firm Thornley Fallis, a communications consulting agency, through which he has helped government and business clients in media relations, public affairs, crisis communications and management issues. He is in demand as a speechwriter for leaders in government and the community, and co-hosts a podcast series, Inside PR.

In 2007, Fallis drew upon all his experiences to write and self publish The Best Laid Plans, which won the Steven Leacock Medal for Humour in 2008, the gold medal in the Independent Publisher Book Awards, and in 2011 became the CBC's Canada Reads "essential Canadian novel of the decade." McCelland and Stewart published Fallis's second book, The High Road, which was a finalist in the Stephen Leacock Medal for Humour in 2011. Upon publication this September, his third book, Up and Down, hit the bestseller lists immediately.

The gala starts at 1 p.m. at Pinestone on Sunday, Nov. 4, with a silent auction and refreshments. After Fallis's presentation at 2 p.m., there will be an opportunity to buy his books and to participate in a book signing session. At the gala, the public can join the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library, or members can renew their 2013 membership for $5. Book baskets and tote bags will also be on sale.

Tickets for the gala are $20 and are available for sale at Master's Book Store in Haliburton, Organic Times in Minden, or by contacting Brenda at 705-457-2695.

A proportion of proceeds from the year's gala will be directed to the Haliburton County's Public Library computer fund. This fund has been set up to ensure that our library's public access computers continue to be available to the community. The federal government's program (CAP), which supported these computers, has been withdrawn, leaving no resources to provide this valuable service in Haliburton, where many do not receive high-speed Internet or find the cost of a computer prohibitive.

Don't miss this opportunity to hear Fallis speak and to support the work of the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library. Everyone welcome.

Finding a physician in Highlands East

Chad Ingram
Staff reporter

Highlands East councillors continue to seek a physician for the medical centre in Wilberforce.

Nancy Pelletier of the Community Care Access Centre was in council chambers on Oct. 9 to talk about Health Care Connect, a joint program between the Ministry of Health and the Ontario Medical Association.

"It's a voluntary program for physicians," Pelletier said, explaining that patients without a doctor can sign up by phone or on the Internet. "In some areas, physicians are looking for physicians and in other areas, that's not a problem."

One catch is that to register for the program, patients need to de-roster from their current physician if they have one.

Many people in Highlands East have doctors in either Bancroft or Haliburton.

Pelletier suggested that patients talk to their physicians, ask them to de-roster them but to continue to see them until such time Health Care Connect might bring a physician to Wilberforce.

Their doctors would continue to get paid, but just bill OHIP in a different way.

There is no guarantee that a physician would set up shop in the village's medical centre.

"I would go through my list and find people [in the Wilberforce catchment area], but I would need the physician to say to me first, 'help find me patients in Wilberforce."

Cheryl Kennedy of the Haliburton Family Health Team was also at the meeting and said the team was aware of the facility now available.

There are physicians and nurse practitioners who have visited the community in the past and who are willing to continue to do so, Kennedy said.

However, she wasn't sure there was enough demand in the area for an incoming physician to set up a permanent practice.

"He would have to know and feel comfortable there was a patient load out here," she said.

Peter Fredericks of the local physician recruitment effort said a survey about physician need was going to be issued "so we can get those numbers to the Family Health Team."

For more information or to sign up for Health Care Connect, visit www.health.gov.on.ca/en/ms/healthcareconnect/public/.

Rails End enters 50th year with solid foundation

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

Time to celebrate.

The Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre is looking forward to its 50th year as they announced the repayment of a $46,389 loan to the Haliburton County Development Corporation at its annual general meeting last month.

This falls on the heels of their repayment of a $33,855 loan from Dysart Township a year earlier. Both loans helped with the renovation and the raising of the building in 2006.

Besides great effort by volunteers to fundraise and generous contributions by supporters, the gallery paid its debt by eliminating one fulltime staff member, utilizing its valuable corps of 20 volunteers (with 60 for the Arts and Crafts Festival) and applying energy efficient measures such as insulating the ceiling and the perimeter of the foundation (thanks to a Trillium Grant), and improving the tracking system of sold goods, in the gift shop.

Gallery executive director Laurie Jones is excited to move forward and celebrate the golden anniversary next year while continuing to serve the community. Fundraising must continue.

"By no means can we let up on fundraising we do because there is always something else," Jones said.

They aim to insulate the drafty former train station building and formalize plans for an improved kitchen and storage areas for better functionality.

Insulation is ongoing challenge for the building, but Jones believes any other structure wouldn't have the same character, charm or draw for the public.

The renovations enabled the gallery to be a year round facility. It presents the community with exhibitions and supported local artists with its members' show, a show for Fleming College instructors and the high school students' show. Many are given their first opportunity to exhibit their work in the gallery.

The gallery's next exhibition is Seldom Seen: Traces of a War by artist Scott Waters who was an artist in the Canadian Forces Artists Program from 2006 to 2011. This show is from Oct. 20 to Jan. 12.

Jones, who appreciates the ongoing financial support by the municipality, said the membership grew by 22 per cent and attributes it to an active membership drive, encouragement for renewals, profile raising efforts using brochures and comment cards for feedback and through events such as Colourfest, children's art programming and other free community events.

The gallery can now set its focus on cel-bration. Events are being planned around annual events such as the Arts and Crafts Festival and the year will be highlighted by a gala event in September or October. The anniversary celebrations will commence with participation in the upcoming Haliburton Santa Claus parade.

Vicki Sisson, who has been president for three years, has experienced the ups and downs in her 10 years with the gallery. She credits Jones with the achievement.

"I've seen the gallery come from near disaster bankruptcy to having the new foundation put underneath and bringing Laurie [Jones] on board ... she's done a phenomenal job for us with her creativity and her energy. And seeing these debts were paid off," she said. "We're on such solid ground financially. We've become more of a focus on the community. I think we're a destination in the community and we like to keep that momentum going."

Outdoors Association develops plan for education

The Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association understands the value of education. A well planned and organized education program that is dynamic, attracts a wide range of learners, and engages the local community will contribute to the viability and long term success of the outdoors association and its conservation efforts. To this end, the association is pleased to announce the development of an education plan. With the assistance of its education partners, Out to Learn, Yours Outdoors and funding from the Haliburton County Development Corporation, the Association will be identifying education programs, services and facilities that will be developed over the next three years.

"We are very excited about this undertaking," said Rex Henry, HHOA president, "This plan and its implementation will help us better utilize our visitor centre, fish hatchery and the other learning resources and opportunities we have available to us. As a result, we will be more effective in fostering a better understanding and wise use of our fish and wildlife resources and healthy ecosystems."

Over the next couple of months, Barrie Martin, Irene Heaven and Paul Heaven of Out to Learn and Yours Outdoors will be reaching out to schools, organizations, businesses, and potential partners to identify how a dynamic education program could benefit all those involved.

Considerable progress has already been made with an inventory of the education resources at the hatchery, a property map using GIS technology, and a land cover report that describes the diverse natural assets and education potential of the hatchery's property. Additional education activities include the development of a proposal for a Family Day at the hatchery; and use of the hatchery by the high school, the Junior Naturalists and the Hike Haliburton Festival.

"Offering more and better education programming will benefit the outdoors association in many ways," notes HHOA vice president, John Teljeur. "It helps us achieve our mandate of fish and conservation; increase interest and participation in HHOA activities by residents, cottagers and tourists; generate more revenue and encourage more people to become members and volunteers. We would like to see the fish hatchery become a destination for a wide variety of people and purposes."

Anyone who is interested in the education plan for the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association or making use of the hatchery for educational purposes can contact Barrie Martin at 705-754-3436 or info@yoursoutdoors.ca, or Irene Heaven at 705-286-3181 or iheaven@glenstage-eco.ca.

Lions club shares the warmth

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

It's hard to forget a smile.

The Coats for Kids charity drive has been bringing smiles to children's faces since it officially started nine years ago by husband and wife, Keith and Francis Burns.

Burns still remembers the five year old who thanked him for his new (to him) Maple Leafs jacket in the inaugural year of the drive.

"It fit him like a glove. He came over to me and said, 'Thanks, Mr. Burns for the nice coat,'" he said. "That made it all [worth it]. It gives you motivation to carry on."

The drive is a community initiative that collects donated winter coats and then cleans them to redistribute to the community.

Burns credits the idea to a young woman who worked for a post-secondary institution. The idea of warm clothes going to waste upset him too.

"What motivated me was seeing all the good stuff getting thrown into the dump," he said.

Since the couple is getting older and the drive is growing, they have enlisted the support of the Haliburton Lions Club the past few years and the Minden and District Lions Club last year. They are taking a greater role and their help is appreciated, Burns said.

"It's getting bigger. It's time to get help and keep this thing going. It's a good program. We've helped a lot of kids," he said.

This year there were more than 250 coats collected. The coat tally is edging closer to 2,000 coats and is indicative of the strength of the Highlands community.

Burns is appreciative to everyone from the donors and to the participating drop off spots such as Archie Stouffer Elementary School, Stuart Baker Elementary School, J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School, Canoe FM, Wilberforce Elementary School, and Agnew's General Store in Wilberforce, Todd's Your Independent Grocer, Haliburton Foodland, Dollo's Foodland in Minden, Carnarvon Lumber, West Guilford Shopping Centre, and the Eagle Lake Country Market.

He thanked the Lindsay Dry Cleaners, who have been part of this initiative since the beginning.

The coats are available for pickup on Nov. 3 and 7 at the Minden and District Lions Club and in Haliburton at the United Church and Canoe FM.

Don't worry about any perceived stigma, he said.

"No one should feel bad about coming to get a free coat because [the coats were] going to end up in the dump. They certainly are dry cleaned and are in good shape," he said.

Darren Lum Staff

The Coats for Kids volunteers Jim Frost, left, of the Haliburton Lions Club, Francis Burns and Keith Burns, founders, and Marilyn Frost, also with Lions, were appreciative of the community for the donated coats, piled high in bags in the back of a pickup truck destined for the Lindsay Dry Cleaners. This year the charity drive collected more than 250 coats available for pick up in Minden and Haliburton Nov. 3 and 7.

Music Notes

Have you ever eaten in a restaurant where the music was too loud? Too soft? There was no music at all and you found yourself hearing way too much about the lives of the people sitting next to you?

If so, this column may be of interest. Remember we are not talking live music here as that is a different product. Music in restaurants really needs to be treated like an ingredient of the whole product if it is to reach its potential. Just like salt or lighting, there can be too much or too little. Balance is the key. In most restaurants, however, music is not given much thought. There are exceptions of course, the Hard Rock Café chain being an obvious one.

In larger centres music in restaurants is taken more seriously, however. In fact, there now exist music "sommeliers" whose job it is to tailor music for specific restaurants and their clientele. The goal is to create happy customers, which results in return visits, word of mouth recommendations and hence increased revenues.

As one pundit pointed out, when you enter a restaurant your first impressions are visual and aural. Ever been in a restaurant where the staff are arguing? Not an inviting prospect. Music can play a role here.

There are many factors that can affect the type of music that might be played. Obviously the type of restaurant and food served will influence the music played. As well, things like location, size, day of the week, and time of day can all be factors. One study quoted by Restaurant Management magazine showed that sales increased by more than 11 per cent when up-tempo music was played during lunch hour. Similarly breakfast, happy hour and late night time slots will all have different requirements. Many restaurants have televisions on as we can readily witness here in the Highlands.

The role of this medium is a topic for another day but music can certainly be a component. Just think, even the NHL season or lack thereof will effect this!

I was in a local restaurant in the morning recently where there was no music but there was news on a television and I know that they play CMT later in the day. As a result of researching this article I have found myself more aware of what's going on musically when I am in a restaurant. My plan now, over the next few months, is to do a kind of informal survey. If I find anything interesting it is likely to end up on these pages, in this column at a later date. I'd encourage any interested readers to do the same and feel free to send me any of your findings.

To quote William Shakespeare, "If music be the food of love play on; Give me excess of it". I am not sure what the relevance is to this column but I just couldn't resist putting a little "Will" into a small local paper. Food for thought! See you next time.

Reads of the week

Book of the Week

Coppermine by Keith Ross Leckie

Part epic adventure, part romance, and part true-crime thriller, Coppermine is a dramatic, compelling, character-driven story set in 1917 in the extremes of Canada's far north and the boom town of Edmonton. Set against the harsh climate of the Arctic and Inuit culture of good and evil spirits, Corporal Creed, of the Royal West Mounted Police, sets out on a yearlong journey with an Inuit translator, Angituk. Their mission was to investigate the disappearance of two Catholic priests. Corporal Creed eventually finds two Inuit hunters, Sinnisiak and Uluksuk, who are taken into custody to answer for the crime. He brings the two accused back to Edmonton for a show trial. However, the jury is not the only one that has to make a decision as Corporal Creed also faces a decision of the heart. You can reserve Coppermine today at the Haliburton County Public Library.

Junior Book of the Week Young Adult Title

The Raven Boys by Maggie Stiefvater

For as long as Blue Sargent can remember, she's been told that her true love will die after they kiss. Born into a family of psychics, but lacking clairvoyance herself, Blue understand that this prediction cannot be taken lightly. As a result, dating boys has never been of her top priorities. Especially not boys who attend the elite Aglionby Academy; known as raven boys, they are recognized as arrogant snobs, ruined by their lives of privilege. But when Blue sees the ghost of a raven boy on St. Mark's Eve - the day on which spirits of those who will die in the next 12 months walk the earth - she feels drawn to his presence. And when she meets this doomed boy, and his close friends, she cannot help but become a part of their lives. Tempting the fates, Blue and her raven boys embark on a life altering quest. A thrilling read, The Raven Boys by Maggie Stiefvater is able to reserve from your library.

Local Celebrity Read:

Jamie Bilodeau, library assistant at the Haliburton County Public Library, read and loved The Chimps of Fauna Sanctuary by Andrew Westoll, a book about a Montreal-based sanctuary for chimps that have been retired from biomedical research.

"I have always loved the great apes and the cover of this book hit me like a brick in the chest," says Bilodeau. "Upon further reading, and my second box of tissue, I realized this is not a book about the horrible treatment of these chimps but rather a book about their recovery, and a woman who risked it all to provide them with choices, safety and, above all, a voice. Andrew Westoll introduces us to a family not unlike our own families. Chimpanzees are more closely related to humans than they are to gorillas - that's something to ponder."

Cottage development next step at MartinWood

Jenn Watt
Editor

Over the last two years, Lally Developments has been hard at work transforming MartinWood Golf and Country Club Resort into a year-round resort, banquet hall and hotel. Now they're ready to build cottages.

Since purchasing the Harcourt property two years ago, developer John Lally and his father, golf course architect Jack Lally, have been readying the property for cottages.

"The beauty up here is not what we could get elsewhere," Lally said in an interview.

"The elevation changes are spectacular."

The cottages will be affordably priced, around the $160,000 mark, with access to snowmobile trails, hiking trails, Benoir Lake and, of course, the golf course, he said.

On Friday, Lally officially launched the development with support from Haliburton County Warden and Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey and Councillor Steve Pogue.

Lally hopes the resort will serve as an attraction to the Harcourt area, providing up to 30 jobs in the summer and creating traffic to other local restaurants and attractions.

For example, while there is an on-site pub at MartinWood, Lally said most guests who stay for several days want to travel around and try out local restaurants.

Lally Developments and Lally Golf are responsible for several other sites, including River's Edge Golf and Country Club in Bancroft, Whitetail Golf and Country Club in the Lindsay area and Bear Creek Golf and Country Club in Strathroy, Ont. MartinWood was approved to build 78 units in the development they are calling MartinWood Country Club Estates. Each will be between 800 and 1,200 square feet backing onto forest.

Most will have two bedrooms and two bathrooms and will give owners the opportunity to rent out the space through MartinWood when they aren't using it.

"The idea for a lot of people is the cottage is becoming a lot of work and not just play," Lally said.

MartinWood will take care of cutting the grass, shoveling snow, etc., all included in a maintenance fee. Lally said MartinWood will be a natural stop for snowmobilers going from Ottawa to Huntsville as well as golf enthusiasts. His father, who has designed golf courses for 55 years, helped him revamp the former "tired" 18-hole course into "a wonderful nine holes," he said.

The suites in the resort have been renovated as well. At the beginning of November, Lally will begin selling the new units, which he said are targeted to all age groups.

Local dignitaries break ground at development

Jerelyn Craden
Special to the Echo

The sun shone on 2,000 feet of Benoir Lake's shoreline and 750 acres of forest in Harcourt where local dignitaries gathered to support the vision of John and Jack Lally's (Lally Homes) all new MartinWood Country Club Estates on Oct. 12.

"There's huge potential here," Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey said. "It's on a good chain of lakes. It has all the recreational amenities. They've done a super job of renovating the hotel and golf course, and the design of 78 new country homes looks good. Harcourt was hit hard a number of years ago when Martin Lumber closed down and it's good to see it come back. It also means more jobs in construction and operating the facility."

For 30 years, the Lally family has been building homes and golf courses. Now, the totally renovated MartinWood Hotel boasts 19 suites with four-season views, a games room, indoor pool, lounge, spa, pub, boardroom, and banquet room. MartinWood's best nine holes have new tees, new landing areas, and newly shaped bunkers. Construction of the 78 energy-efficient, one and two bedroom country homes and 15 docks will begin in spring 2013. Openly enthusiastic about the development, Haliburton County Chamber of Commerce manager, Rosemarie Jung, said: "As one of the gateways to Haliburton Highlands, the year round spin-off business from the hotel, golf course, and new country homes for Harcourt and the whole county will be huge."

Steve Pogue, Dysart et al councillor added "the main snowmobile E-trail comes right by their door, which also makes MartinWood a great place to stop for a meal or stay overnight."

With great energy and excitement, John Lally, project manager, owner and visionary, guided the tour through the hotel and property showing the walking, biking and snowmobile trails, golf course, sandy beach, and where the docks will go. He also showed delight when mentioning that home owners will be entitled to use all hotel amenities, plus receive a two-year membership at MartinWood's nine hole and River'sEdge 18 holes golf course in Bancroft, and have the option of placing their home in a managed rental pool.

"Building has always been in our family," Lally said. "My dad has built over 30 golf courses. It's a business that we all love. It's great to share our passion and vision of a four-season lifestyle where people are excited about where they vacation and live. We want owners to look back and say, they were the best years of our lives."

Bradley honoured for hard work, character and commitment

Doug Sullivan
Special to the Echo

The fall was Mike Bradley's time of year, football season. It seemed appropriate that his mural on the Dysart Wall of Fame was unveiled on a cool overcast October morning, football weather. A crowd gathered on Sunday to honour the latest local athlete to have his likeness displayed on the wall of the Dysart arena.

Bradley began his career playing running back at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School where he quickly became a star. He moved on to the University of Waterloo where he set many rushing and touchdown records, was a three-time all-Canadian, OUA most valuable player, and Hec Creighton nominee as the nation's top university player. He capped his football career as a member of the Edmonton Eskimos from 2002-2007 winning two Grey Cups during that time.

Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey began the proceedings by introducing Bradley's high school coaches who came to honour him. Gary Brohman began by remembering Bradley not just for his skills but for his hard work, character, and commitment. Bruce Griffith entertained the crowd with stories of Bradley's high school career remembering one game in particular when Bradley rushed for 375 yards, and that was just the first half. Tim Davies also contributed his tales of the running back's accomplishments as Davies continued to follow Bradley's career at Waterloo and Edmonton. The pride that each man felt in their former prodigy was evident to everyone there.

Bradley related how deeply honoured he was to be on the Wall of Fame. He thanked Fearrey and the residents of Haliburton. He was overwhelmed by the support that he received from this small community. During his football career he always had a local following no matter where he was playing. People here continue to approach him to discuss football despite being retired from the game for the last six years. He was also grateful to his high school coaches, Gary Brohman, Tim Davies, Bruce Griffith and Derek Little. He marvelled at the fact that three of them are still coaching today, 20 years later.

Bradley thanked his parents, Jim and Janet, wife Kim and daughter Hannah. He has moved on from his life in football and is now a constable with the Durham Regional Police. He continues to view Haliburton as home and hopes that he can live here again one day.

The mural is the work of artist Richard Vander Meer who has crafted three of the five murals that grace the side of the arena.

Red Hawks roll over expansion team

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

Before the first minute it was all but over for the visiting Lakefield District Secondary School Tigers, as the Red Hawks junior football team took full advantage of the newest program in the Kawartha Football League.

The Tigers were reeling and appeared shell shocked after the Red Hawks struck with two touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions within the first minute.

Obviously there was plenty to cheer about for the Red Hawks faithful, as the home team won 38-6 on the strength of the dominating first half.

Longtime Red Hawks coach Bruce Griffith was a little bewildered by the shift in performance for his team who looked like world beaters in the first quarter and then almost handed the game back in the second half.

"That happens every year in junior. It's all about momentum," he said. "If we hadn't scored all those touchdowns in the first quarter it would have been closer. They could have won it."

He said with a lopsided score early, the Red Hawks coaching staff wanted to get the rookies in for some playing time, but with penalties and a loss of focus this wasn't an option.

On the first play the Highlands fans erupted as Red Hawks slotback Joseph Patrick emerged from the pack after an apparent fumble on the kickoff return during a tackle and ran into the end zone.

The touchdown was scored so quickly it is likely the fastest in the history at the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field. HHSS quarterback Devon Upton added two more with a pass to a wide open Hunter Smith 8-0.

Patrick, who was also called into a few defensive and special teams' plays, finished with a pair of touchdowns and a two-point convert run.

Without a first down from Lakefield on their first drive, the Red Hawks reclaimed possession inside the visitors end. HHSS continued with its dominance, sending tailback Mac Rider on a 20-plus yard touchdown run for a 14-0 lead. Upton connected again with Smith for two more 16-0.

From inside the 50 yard line, Patrick displayed great speed on the last drive of the first quarter.

Upton handed it off to Patrick who ran past the line of scrimmage and through the secondary untouched to his second score of the game for 22-0. Patrick completed the offensive drive with a run for a successful two-point conversion 24-0.

Not to be outdone, the HHSS defence showed signs of brilliance.

During the subsequent Tigers' offensive drive, linebacker Curtis Ballantyne broke through the Tigers' line and sacked the Lakefield quarterback to cause a fumble.

Alertly, Red Hawks defensive tackle Travis Carroll picked up the loose ball and rumbled several yards before getting tackled inside the Tigers' red zone.

With the first attempt to capitalize on the turnover, HHSS full back Ben Davis ran it in from just outside the five-yard line for a 30-0 lead.

Although the extra-point attempt failed from a high snap,

Second half defence holds firm for win

the Red Hawks were poised to win easily.

However the momentum shifted and a pair of costly penalties put the Tigers inside the red zone. They capitalized with a touchdown 30-6.

The extra-point attempt failed. Undeterred the Tigers regained possession with an onside kick when it was mishandled.

Just as the Tigers looked to score again and seize the opportunity of a pass interference call setting them in the Red Hawks' red zone, HHSS ended any miracle comebacks with a timely tackle. Red Hawks linebacker Smith showed alertness in tackling the Tigers' receiver well short of the end zone on the last drive of the half. It ended the Tigers' momentum.

Although the Tigers tightened up the defence in the second half, HHSS helped the opposition as their game deteriorated. Red Hawks penalties didn't help and they enabled the Tigers. It robbed HHSS of any chance to reclaim the momentum from the first quarter.

However the Red Hawks' defence appeared to hold well when the Tigers showed a threat to score.

In the last two minutes HHSS showed its resolve by putting the game away with a defensive touchdown. Red Hawks cornerback Cody Bain stepped up and grabbed a short pass at the midfield. He then ran it in to secure the Red Hawks' third win of the season. Upton, as he did all game, passed to Smith for two more points on the convert.

The Red Hawks improve to 3-1 while the Tigers remain winless through four games in their inaugural campaign after an approximate 40-year absence from football.

Note: Linebacker Hunter Smith showed his offensive skills when he teamed up with Devon Upton for three two-point conversions in the game.

On Friday, Oct. 12, HHSS beat Campbellford 49 - 14. Patrick scored three touchdowns and rushed for 234 yards in the first half. Other players assumed his spot in the second. Braden Roberts, Hunter Smith, Devon Upton and Mac Rider each added a touchdown.

The Red Hawks host the Norwood today at 1:30 p.m. It will decide second place.

Consolation Turkey

The Red Hawks varsity B field hockey team went undefeated (1-2-0), but the lone win wasn't enough to win the Turkey Tournament in Haliburton on Tuesday, Oct. 9. North Hastings High School Huskies junior squad finished first in the exhibition tournament undefeated (2-1-0) record.

The event included the Holy Cross Hurricanes and the St. Thomas Aquinas Titans. Red Hawks goalkeeper Sydney Cameron played all three games, allowing just one goal. HHSS forward Sydney Feir led her team with four goals followed by teammate Shea MacNaull, three, Alicia McLean, two, and Connor Marsden, one. See additional photo on next page.

Hawks route Huskies in exhibition game

Darren Lum
Staff reporter

The score may not show it, but it was their greatest challenge this season.

It doesn't matter what time of year it is the Red Hawks varsity A field hockey team is always motivated when it comes to the arch rivals from Bancroft, the North Hastings High School Huskies – whether it's an exhibition or championship game.

Both perennial powerhouses, who often face each other in the Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics championships, the two teams squared off in an exhibition game during a steady shower with temperatures just above freezing in Haliburton on Thursday, Oct. 16.

HHSS finished with 4-0 win, but appreciated the challenge, as they gave up four short corners and half a dozen shots, the Red Hawks head coach Caley Sisson said.

"It gives our defence some added pressure. It was good for them to practice and experience that," she said. "It was awesome for [goalkeeper] Jenn [Woolacott] to get some shots on her and she did not disappoint. Jenny played amazing."

These scoring chances resulted in far more scoring challenges than any other game this season, including tournament play.

Sisson isn't taking anything for granted and expects tougher competition when they may face the Huskies in the playoffs.

"This was great for us and a wonderful experience. We're fortunate to have them come over and play us in exhibition. Absolutely, they will be a different team [next time]," she said.

Red Hawks forward Mackenzie Hill started the scoring just minutes into the game 1-0.

Hill was open on the far side of the Huskies keeper and struck on the team's first scoring chance.

A few plays later the Red Hawks struck again.

Forward Sandy Griffith scored (2-0) on a shot after teammate Charlene Hicks, who was in front of the net, had her chance to score taken from her when it was cleared from her by a Huskies defender. The clearing attempt went right to Griffith.

On the next offensive rush Hicks, who was undeterred, rushed the ball and worked it inside causing a melee in front of the Huskies keeper. The Red Hawks forward Tanisha Gordon struck for the insurance marker 3-0.

The Huskies regrouped and attacked immediately after.

Red Hawks goalkeeper Jenn Woolacott stood tall, including a diving save on a second effort.

True to the Huskies never-say-die attitude the game went back and forth. The neutral zone tightened up with both teams exchanging possession. The visitors continued to garner more scoring chances and came close, particularly when a ball got behind Woolacott. Her teammate Jessica Duchene came to her rescue, clearing the ball from the goalline to preserve the shutout.

Hill finished the game and any chance of a comeback for the Huskies when she scored for her second of the game 4-0.

Note: Red Hawks forward Brigitta Hicks left the game with noticeable pain after she took a deflected clearing off her kneecap. Her walking was laboured, but it is undetermined whether she'll miss the team's next game.

Two days earlier the Red Hawks beat Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School 5-0 in league play. Sandy Griffith scored two with Laura Pottier, Brigitta Hicks and Ali Valleau each adding one goal.

comeback

The following is an HHSS sports brief written by Judi Paul's class.

On Wednesday, Oct. 10, the senior girls' basketball team travelled to I.E. Weldon for a nail-biter of a game. Tied at half and tied after three quarters, the Red Hawks came up short in the fourth, with the final score 22-18 in favour of Weldon.

Leading the scoreboard were Jaimie Dack, Maia O'Sullivan, and Jessica Rider.

Novice Storm muffles Thunder

On Saturday, Oct. 13 the Highland Storm Novice played their first away game travelling to Port Carling to face the "Thunder." The Storm got on the board quick with three goals in the first period. First goal: Hunter Winder assisted by goaltender Damon Harriss. Second goal: Nick Phippen assisted by Kyan Hall and Ty Mills. Third goal: Phippen assisted by Matthew Vargas and Ryan Rupnow, giving the Storm a 3-1 lead going into the second period.

Hunter Winder scored the fourth goal unassisted within the first 16 seconds of the second period. Hall scored the fifth goal (his first goal of the season) assisted by Phippen and Colin Glecoff. It was now 5-2 going into the third.

Phippen started off the third period with his third goal of the game (giving him his second hat trick of the season) assisted by Hall and Gage Hutchinson, making it 6-2. With two minutes 33 seconds left in the game Phippen scores his fourth and final goal of the game assisted by Winder, making it a 7-4 win for the STORM! The Storm carry a 3-0 record going into this coming weekend with games against Port Carling and Parry Sound.

Peewee A team wins Duchene tournament

Congratulations to the Highland Storm Peewee As who won the Matt Duchene Classic hockey tournament over the weekend! Solid starts in all three round robin games showed the other teams that the Storm were the team to beat. The squad won all three games 3-1 as they rolled through Centre Hastings, Innisfil and Mariposa to earn a spot in the semi-finals against Woodville on Sunday in Wilberforce. In the semi-final the team's skill was on full display and they easily defeated Woodville 7-0 on goals by Alex Petrie, Devyn Prentice, Carter O'Neill, Josh Boice and a hat trick by Kyle Cooper. It was an impressive effort and showed that the boys were here to win. In the final the Storm faced Centre Hastings; the team they first faced in the round robin. It was another solid effort as they won 3-2 on goals by Prentice, Ben Schmidt and Boice. This team is coming together nicely under coaches Barry Boice and Jim O'Neill and they look forward to their next tournament in Bracebridge in a couple of weeks.

Special thanks to convenor Kim O'Neill for her long hours of dedication to the tournament and Andrea Prentice for organizing the prize tables. The team is proudly sponsored by Smolen Dentistry.

Congratulations, boys!

From last week's games:

Atom As hosted a double header against Parry Sound

Game 1: With great line passing, Carter Bull passes to Ben MacNaull for our first goal. Quickly Parry Sound tried to answer with a goal, only to be shut down by goaltender Dylan Keefer. Working together the team scores another by Alex Little. Never giving up we lost 5-2.

Game 2: After a few hours to rest, we stepped out on the ice determined. Cole Prentice fires on the net, with a quick rebound from Ethan Glecoff to put us on the board. Just minutes after Isaac Little passes to MacNaull for another point. Passing the puck and moving it back down the ice Nigel Smith gets our third goal. Period 2 the team was not willing to let up any pressure. Paul Turner makes a great pass to Zack Morissette - goal. As the crowd is cheering, Nigel gains control of the puck and scores another for the team!

The puck is dropped in the third. With Parry Sound still applying pressure, Joe Boice battles for the puck, passes to Miki Butka for a goal. Parry Sound answers with a goal, only to have Boice score another for the team. Our last goal of the game, but no less important goes to Morissette. Unstoppable goaltending by Dylan Keefer paired with determination, dedication, and hard work by all we resulted in our first win (7-4) of the season.

Volunteerism alive and well

Wilberforce

Hilda Clark

448-2018

Roberta Walsh has made a significant contribution to this community. In acknowledgement of her lifetime of reaching out to others Roberta was presented with the Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal on Tuesday Oct. 9. Before her family, friends and the members of council of the Municipality of Highlands East she received this prestigious award from Member of Provincial Parliament, Laurie Scott.

Over the years in her quiet gracious manner Roberta has generously volunteered her time and talents in support of a variety of organizations and events. She was involved in the introduction of the Girl Guide organization to this area. She was Brown Owl to many Brownies who under her leadership flew up to be Girl Guides.

Roberta was not just one of the best curlers in this area, she served on the executive of the Monmouth/Wilberforce Curling Club many years as president. She was so faithful organizing and curling that at one point her family suggested she have a bed at the club.

Roberta was certainly an honorary member of the local volunteer fire department or should have been. Along with Max, the love of her life, she was involved greatly in the work of that important community group. Fundraising, food preparation and anything to do with hospitality, she was there to help. Wasn't it the Walsh phone number we always knew if help was needed?

The Millennium Committee and the Ladies Auxiliary at the Royal Canadian Legion were other areas where she was involved. And all of this while they were raising their family and operating the family businesses, which still includes the Bostonian Motel.

Roberta was delighted to have her family that included her daughters Kathy, Rhonda and Julie, son-in-law Steve and grandchildren at this special occasion.

The morning celebration concluded with lunch and a very special cake.

That same evening the celebration continued when family and friends attended an open house in Roberta's honour at the home of friend Nataly Goulet.

Congratulations Roberta on the receipt of this very well deserved royal medal.

And while on the subject of volunteering we can report that it is still alive and well. Take a look at all the vehicles and folks with hockey equipment near the local arena this past Saturday and Sunday and we know that the tournament there had to have many parents, coaches and even officials volunteering.

On Thursday, Oct. 11 women from Anglican churches in Wilberforce, Bobcaygeon, Coboconk, Beaverton, Haliburton, Minden, Dunsford, Balsam Lake and Burnt River met at St. James Fenelon Falls for a day of worship, learning and fellowship. From the women who attended and from speakers from Big Brothers/Big Sisters and The Boys and Girls Club Foundation participants learned of an amazing amount of volunteering that goes on in all these communities.

Congrats students

West Guilford

Eleanor Cooper

754-2278

The sense of pride shines through as Honours and Awards on Oct. 6 are noted with particular emphasis on those from Guilford who participated in various ways.

Earl presented the Jim and Doris Cooper scholarship which was awarded to Angus Sullivan, son of Doug and Bessie (the librarian) Sullivan.

Mrs. Judi Paul presented the Eagle Lake Women's Scholarship for Geography, also the year 1 Mathematics award to her and Andy Paul's son, Matthew.

The Sid Cooper Memorial Scholarship established by Louise Cooper was achieved by Rebecca Currie for highest mark in Year 3 Physics.

The memorial bursary in memory of Bobby (as we knew him) Sisson was won by Thomas Giguere for making a significant contribution to the school in the arts.

Elaine Searle, daughter of Darla and Steve Searle won the Specialist High Skills Major Award and the award from Canoe FM for application of technology as it relates to entertainment and communication. Elaine has just begun work north of Edmonton to start her career.

Lauren Snelgrove, daughter of Rob and Wendy Snelgrove won the RE/MAX North Country Bursary and goes on to pursue bursary related work.

Rebecca Wrightman is attending Georgian College in Barrie having won the Jason Hollowell award for Practicities.

Thank You Cards

We would like to thank all of those people involved in the ceremony on Oct. 7th to celebrate the unveiling of the mural for Mike Bradley on the wall of the Dysart Arena. Thanks to Murray Fearrey for organizing the actual painting and for emceeing the event. Thanks to Gary Brohman, Tim Davies and Bruce Griffith for their wonderful speeches. You spoke from the heart. Thanks to all of our friends from Koshlong Lake and Haliburton Village for coming out on a chilly morning to support Mike. We really appreciate all the effort that went into the process of getting this mural on the wall and the effort that went into the unveiling ceremony. Truly a lasting memory.

Peewee AE kick off season

our first game of the season. Great job to the boys, keep it up.

Novice team starts season with bang

The Highland Storm novice team started off the season with a bang facing the Port Carling Thunder in a double header Sept. 29. The Storm got off to a quick start scoring within the first 30 seconds of the game.

They were back and forth, end to end all game. The skaters had their work cut out for them for sure.

It was definitely a game of who wants it more. Closing out the first period the score was only 1-0 for South Muskoka. With a quick goal for the Storm team we tied it up, scoring was Austin French.

Unfortunately South Muskoka rallied back and scored two more goals. To close out the second we were down 3-1. After a much-needed flood to rest our legs, and get back out there for the third period, the skaters had another tough period ahead of them. With them giving it their all, we found ourselves with a loss of 6-1, in hopes to come out winners on Friday night when we would meet up with them again in Gravenhurst.

We kicked off that game hoping for a win and we did it. We walked away from Gravenhurst with a win of 3-1. The boys played a nail biter of a game. The players never gave up, kept on skating as hard as they could.

With a very nice tip in from Trevor Turner assisted by Denver Allore and Austin French, that closed out the first period. Aidan Garbutt came up huge with a beautiful shot from the blue line straight through everyone, to have it go right in the net, from a nice pass from Matt Manning.

Our third goal was another nice tip in from Denver Allore assisted by Austin French and Tanner Crang, we were well on our way to a win. With some huge saves at the most important times throughout the whole game Carson Sisson kept us alive, to help us win

Second goal by Vargas assisted by Mills.

Port Carling came back with two goals in the second and the Storm picked up a goal by Phippen assisted by Hutchinson and Hall. Fourth goal scored by Winder assisted by Vargas and Ava Smith.

Final goal, giving him the hat-trick, Phippen assisted by Hall and Alexander.

Great defensive play by the blue line consisting of Ryan Rupnow, Colin Glecoff, Smith and Alexander. 5-3 final.

cal Academics and Life Skills program. Rebecca is the daughter of Charlene English and Steve Wrightman. Rebecca is in the marketing and communications/advertising course

The Keith Burns Music Bursary was awarded to Christina Shaw, Keith being the initiator of our Highlands Concert Band.

Wayne Cooper presented the Martha Steen Memorial Award to Loretta Kerr.

Elaine Searle and Lauren Snelgrove also distinguished themselves by earning First-Class Honours for three years.

We are so proud of all of you and our best wishes go with you.

Due thanks, with flowers, was expressed to Barb Fawcett for organizing the ceremony and make sure the program went very smoothly.

We are happy to report no serious injury to Fred Morgan when his truck, trailer and boat caught the edge and slipped into Pine Lake on Nila Road on Thanksgiving weekend.

Wayne Cooper has returned from a very pleasant 12 day trip to Ireland. Belfast, Dublin, Galway, Killarney and Waterford were some of the places visited on the delightful tour.

At time of writing we are anticipating with great glee a visit from our Andy Cooper family from Cowichan, B.C.
